THE WRECKED CANAL.

The President of the Company Says it is Gone as a Waterway.

WHAT WAS SAID AT THE MEETING OF STOCK-HOLDERS YESTERDAY-THE HOPELESS CONDI-TION OF THE FINANCES-A HISTORY OF THE ENTERPRISE-COMPETITION WITE BAILWAYS.

the great flood in the Potomac is the damage done to the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, in which the commercial interests of Georgetown are deeply involved. At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the canal company held at Annapoannual report, after making the usual statement of the business for the year.

was written another disaster has befallen the canal, greater than any in its history. The aware, caused great floods and destruction in the Virginias, Pennsylvania and Maryland, We were not exempted, and the Potomac river was much higher than ever known before, it being on Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2, 6 feet at Cumberland and over 5 feet at Georgetown more than was the great flood of 1877. As our telephone is destroyed and nearly all telegraph and railroad communication between Georgetown and Cumberland cut off, we are unable to get any positive information as to the extent of damages to the canal, and will not be able to do so until the water recedes, which will be several days. We are satisfied, however, from the meager information we have received and what we have been able to see that it will take from $500,000 to $1,000,000 and many months of labor to put the canal in navigable condition rnor and treasurer considered the canal to be in a hopeless condition, and that it could never again be used as a waterway. This also seems to be the impression of all who have been

President Gambrill, in his report of the operations of the canal from January 1 to May 31, 1889, says: The canal was opened in good condition for transportation on the 20th of March, with a fair prospect for early trade owing to local demand, but our expectations were not to be realized, as on the 24th of March a very large break occurred a short dis-tance above Shepherdstown, caused by one of those treacherous leaks in the crevices of the

The breach in the towpath side was 70 feet long and 30 feet deep. Superintendent Biser immediately put a good force of men to work to make repairs, and on April 2 we passed loaded boats. On April 8 another disaster happened, caused by a rock slide at cut near lower end of tunnel, by which over 1,200 cubic yards of stone was thrown in the canal, filling it several feet above the water line for a distance of 100 feet, and completely demolishing the trestle-work or towing-way for the same distance. This rock, which came down in large blocks, some of which weighed 15 to 20 tons, had to be blasted and all hauled away by scows, which made it hard and tedious work. Superintendent Mulvaney had a wellorganized force at work immediately after the accident, and the debris removed by the 17th of April, and on that date navigation was resumed.

THE PINANCIAL SLATEMENT.

The financial statement shows the expense for ordinary repairs and maintenance during the period covered amounted to $44,266.27, and an additional extraordinary expense of $3,470.16 was incurred by the break and rock slide in the Georgetown level. The coal tonnage to May 31 was 57,079.08, a decrease of 3,858.01 below the tonnage for the same months a year ago.

The revenues amounted to $80,031.64. The excess of expenditures over revenue is accounted for by the fact that the first three months, viz., January, February and March navigation was closed and repairs being made January 1, 1889, the company was in debt to the extent of $81,760.87 for labor, material and rent of outlet locks. The present current in-debtedness is stated at $105,395.92, to which is added $75,000 represented by five coupons on repair bonds of 1878. THE DANGER OF FORECLOSURE. "We have made every effort possible, ' President Gambrill's report says, "to induce shipments of coal by canal, but the soft coal trade is so dull and demoralized that it is impossible for us to make any prediction as to canal trade for this season. We again call the attention of the stockholders to the fact that the receipts of the canal company during the past and present year have not been sufficient to pay its current expenses and the interest on the repair bonds under act of 1878, chapter 58. The amount of interest due on these bonds on July 1 next will be $75,000, or 5 coupons. As we stated in our last report, you are well aware that by the terms of the act authorizing the issuing of these bonds the holders of a majority of them have the power to foreclose the mortgage whenever three successive coupons should be in default. As yet no action has been taken toward a foreclosure. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad company has the controlling interest or $260,000 of the bonds.

UNABLE TO COMPETE WITH RAILBOADS. "The inability of the canal company to suc essfully compete with other lines of transportation so long as it remains in its present condition has frequently been brought to the attention of the stockholders by our predecessors as well as ourselves.

"As early as 1875 the president and directors informed the stockholders that unless the canal was enlarged by doubling the locks or increasing the depth of waterway so as to increase the carrying capacity of the boats from 112 tons to 230 tons it would be impossible to meet the sharp competition and lower charges that were being and would be lower charges that were being and would be made by the railroads consequent upon the great improvements they were making, which would eventually enable them to haul coal at less than one-half of what it then cost and have a good profit. These predictions have been more than verified. In 1874 the charge by rail. less than one-half of what it then cost and have a good profit. These predictions have been more than verified. In 1874 the charge by railroad for coal from Cumberland to Locust Point was $2.58 per ton of 2,240, while to-day the charge for same service on same road is $1.25 per ton, a reduction of $1.33 per ton.

"Nor is the B. and O. railroad the only compatitor in the low rates for the Cumberland.

petitor in the low rates for the Cumberland coal. The completion of the Pennsylvania railrod system to the Maryland coal fields makes that corporation a formidable competitor, and they are now hauling coal, a large part of which was formerly carried by the causl and delivered at South Amboy and in New York harbor, at rates which make it impossible for the canal to compete.' NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS.

President Gambrill's report, the main part of which was written before the recent disaster, says: "The canal remains in the same condition practically as it was when completed in 1850; it cannot be expected to maintain itself against such low railroad freights unless its capacity is increased, as heretofore recommended. We are powerless to make your company self-sustaining unless you come to its relief. We believe it would be a great misfortune to the people of powerless to make your company self-sustaining unless you come to its relief. We believe it would be a great misfortune to the people of the state to abandon the canal, but if relief cannot be had, and if neither public nor private interests will advence a sufficient sum to make such improvement as will make it to pass boats of 250 tons' capacity, then we earnestly recommend that some provision be remarked.

in the interest of commerce and profitable to the people of that great state. We do not doubt that the same policy applied to the Chesapeake and Ohio canal would be beneficial and profit-

THE HISTORY OF THE CANAL. The Chesapeake and Ohio canal was the first in the city added together. It verifies its its origin in Washington's efforts to establish canal computed the cost at $22,000,000. After other papers boast largely, but they give no a contest in Congress the enterprise was begun July 4, 1828. President John Quincy Adams broke the ground and the event was celebrated with a great demonstration. The projectors had many difficulties to overcome, and had to struggle to secure money for the enterprise. A loan of $1,000,000 was secured in Amsterdam. Maryland and the United states contributed liberally but treat the second of the second ally, but twenty-two years elapsed before the canal was opened, after having cost over $11,-000,000. The great canal, extending from Cumberland to Georgetown, a distance of 184 miles, passing through mountains by a tunnel nearly a mile long, and running over a conduit that cost $2,000,000, was opened with a great demonstration in 1850. DAYS OF ADVERSITY.

For years it did a prosperous business, being the most convenient outlet for the rich coal lis yesterday, President Gambrill, said in his fields, but the railroads came and with them days of adversity for the canal. Maryland having contributed two-thirds of the capital, controlled the canal, and its affairs got mixed up with state politics, much to the detriment of the enterprise. In recent years difficulty has canal, greater than any in its history. The been experienced in raising funds sufficient to tremendous rain storms of last week, you are keep the canal in a navigable condition.

THE CANAL DEST. A Maryland act of 1878 authorized bonding the company to the extent of $500,000, and bonds were issued secured by mortgage on the revenues and rights of the company. The amount nominally due the state by the Chesa-peake and Ohio canal September 30, 1888. was $26.177.460.77, but this amount included $19,-177,460.77 interest, $2,000,000 bonds and $5,-000,000 stock, making the state's actual investment $7,000,000.

The Gates Were Not Lowered.

Yesterday morning, about 7:30 o'clock, Mr. John F. Barr was about to drive across the Baltimore and Ohio tracks at G street. His wife and children were in the wagon with him. Mr. Barr told his experience to a STAR reporter as follows: A number of freight cars concealed his view of the tracks north of G street. The gates were not down, and so he drove on, not hearing any noise indicating the approach of a train. His horse had just stepped upon the track when a freight train going at good speed came upon him from the stretch of track concealed from view. His borse reared back and was just grazed by the locomotive. One step further, Mr. Barr said, would have resulted in a tragedy. He said that there was no attempt to lower the gates.

Public Amusements. ALBAUGH'S OPERA HOUSE .- "Amorita." a

was heard for the first time in this city at Alwas heard for the first time in this city at Albaugh's last night by the Lamont Opera company. The plot is pleasing and affords opportunity for some amusing work by the comedian as well as several tender passages between the hero, Angelo, who in this cast is Miss Alice Carle, and a very pretty image vender she makes, and Amorita, the daughter of the rich furrier, Castrucci, Mr. DeLange. The piece is handsomely mounted and costumed, and the handsomely mounted and costumed, and the orchestra was held well in hand by Conductor Bauer. As to the music much of it is very pleasing and some of it is reminiscent. The chorus at the beginning of the finale, first act, was exceptionally well done, and secured a double encore. Miss Carle, Miss Baker and Mr. Pruett sang in good taste, as usual, though the assumption of a male role by a woman is out of place, save in burlesque. Miss Lamont was hardly up to her usual standard, and her voice is beginning to show the strain that has been put upon it during an entire season of hard work. She was well received, however, and was presented with several handsome floral tributes. These attested her great personal popularity. Mr. De Lange was very funny and made the most of the furrier's part while Mr. Broderick and Sig. Brocalini were effective in what they had to do. There are some bright lines in the dialogue, and "Amorita" will doubtless become popular here. Last night the full capacity of the house was taxed by the large audience present.

ANACOSTIA.

THE DAMAGED BRIDGE.—The street car comboats of 250 tons' capacity, then we earnestly recommend that some provision be made to prevent a sacrifice of this great work by permitting a foreclosure of the mortgage of 1878. If it must be sold we insist that good faith and fair dealing to the bondholders of 1844 and the state of Maryland, which has preferred liens, demand that the entire work should be disposed of so as to enable the preferred creditors to realize something from their investment. To dispose of a portion of it from Williamsport to Cumberland would sacrifice their entire interest, and it would be unrifice their entire interest, and it would be unwise as well as unfair to the residents, property-holders and business interests along that portion of the canal between Williamsport and deorgetown.

"We, however, again express our earnest hope that the stock-holders will in their wisdom make some provision to relieve the canal however that the stock-holders will in their wisdom make some provision to relieve the canal from its present embarrassment and maintain this work as a great waterway. The state of New York, pursuing a broad and liberal policy, has enlarged its great Eric canal three times sings its first construction; has declared it after waterway and is now engaged in doubling the length of its locks on the precise plan recommended by the managements of this canal every year since 1875. Every commercial body and every intelligent shipper commends the action of the state of New York, that it is wise,
